Course Description

The Bachelor Program in Social Work (BSW) gives students the knowledge and skills to build a professional career in social welfare. The programme teaches learners to apply what they study in real-world settings, helping people affected by poverty, violence, mental illness, homelessness and illnesses such as HIV/AIDS and cancer.

BSW is especially valuable for people working at middle and lower levels with NGOs and social and development agencies in both the government and private sectors. It helps candidates gain the professional skills and knowledge to support clients through their emotional and psychological challenges.
