Course Description

The Executive Diploma in Human Resource Management gives working professionals a complete, practical grounding in how organisations attract, develop and keep their people. It is built for line managers who handle HR responsibilities, HR executives who want to formalise their experience, and anyone planning a move into a people-management career.

The programme covers the full employee lifecycle: workforce and competency planning, recruitment and selection, performance appraisal, training and development, compensation, and employee relations. Alongside the fundamentals, learners study organisational behaviour, labour and industrial relations, counselling skills for managers and current corporate HR practice, so they can apply proven methods to real workplace situations.

Designed by experienced HR practitioners and educators and kept in step with current trends in the field, the course helps learners strengthen their profile for HR roles and take on greater responsibility in their present organisation.
